DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 6-13, 15, 17-24, 26-28, 30, 31, 33-38 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Scott et al.

Scott et al discloses an irrigation unit comprising: a housing having a nozzle inlet 12, an electronic component 20/24/28, a power generator 18 with a turbine 14 in fluid communication with the fluid source, a battery power storage unit 22, and a control system 32/24/28 with a main control system 32. The locations of the power generator or the power storage unit is just a matter of locating the unit with respect to the housing is just a design choice. Furthermore, The Scott et al device could varies the locations of the power generator or the power storage unit as shown in the figure.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 25 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Scott et al. in view of Hirsch.

Scott et al. teaches all the limitations of the claims except for a capacitor power storage device. However, Hirsch discloses an irrigation having electronic components 18/19/38/40/42/43, and a capacitor voltage storage device C (column 6, line 1). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have provided the device of Scott et al with a capacitor power storage device as suggested by Hirsch. Doing so would provide a way to store energy.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The following patents are cited to show the art with respect to an automatic irrigation system: McCloskey (U.S. Patent No. 3,642,204), and McCloskey (U.S. Patent No. 3,750,001).

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 12/06/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 6-13, 15, 17-28, 30, 31, 33-38 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

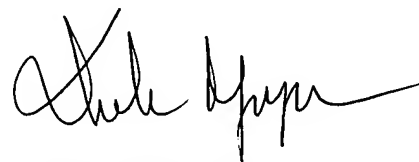

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
